Take the poem out of everything

Chew on every wise thought

If you don't taste the truth, then there's a lie you forgot

Just to feel alive, you set the bar so high

The past will fade or fold up like damascus blades

Your callused hands, read them like you haven't got a plan

Ooh

G

Just thriving with the day

Interlude

D G D G

Verse 2

D G

Take your tea and drink it down

D G

We know about it all, this whispering willow of a town

Nothing wrong with the pouring rain

No flaw in a wildfire if you know what you've gained

Em G Em G
Just to feel alive, you set the bar so high

Nevermind the broken dreams

You'll stitch together new ones from the wreckage of defeat

And when they ask why you made the change
You'll just smile and point out all that still remains

The past will fade or fold up like damascus blades

Just thriving with the day
